Rev. Robert A. Dowd, C.S.C.
President of the University of Notre Dame

The University of Notre Dame was founded in November 1842 by Rev. Edward F. Sorin, C.S.C., a priest of the Congregation of Holy Cross, a French missionary order. It is located adjacent to South Bend, Indiana, the center of a metropolitan area with a population of more than 315,000. Chartered by the state of Indiana in 1844, the University was governed by the Holy Cross priests until 1967, when governance was transferred to a two-tiered, mixed board of lay and religious Trustees and Fellows.

Notre Dame has grown from the vision of Father Sorin, who sought to establish a great Catholic university in America, and has remained faithful to both its religious and intellectual traditions. Today, we seek to be an enlightening force for a world deeply in need. Our Departments of Theology and Philosophy are regarded as among the finest in the world while faculty in all departments participate in our mission to ensure that Notre Dame's Catholic character informs all of our endeavors. From legal scholars who study civil rights and religious liberty, to scientists and engineers who investigate environmental protection, to sociologists who examine religious and ethical practices, Notre Dame continues to be a place where the Church does its thinking.

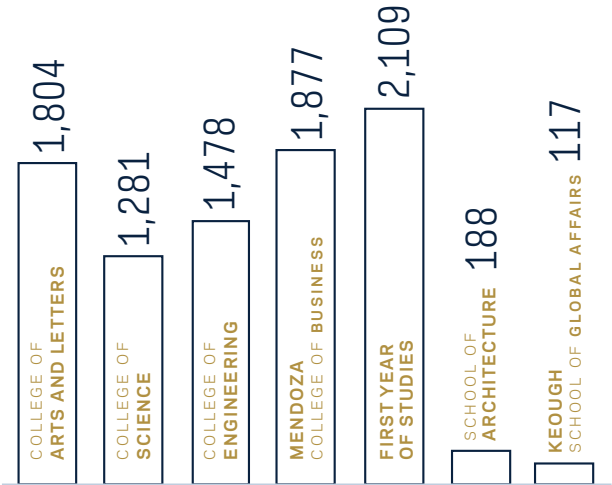

One of America's leading undergraduate teaching institutions, Notre Dame also has been at the forefront in research and scholarship. The aerodynamics of glider flight, the transmission of wireless messages, and the formulae for synthetic rubber were pioneered at the University. Today researchers are achieving breakthroughs in astrophysics, radiation chemistry, environmental sciences, tropical disease transmission, peace studies, cancer, robotics, and nanoelectronics.

Notre Dame always has been heavily residential, with about four in five undergraduates living on campus. Students come to Notre Dame to learn not only how to think but also how to live, and often the experiences alumni carry from residence hall communities at Notre Dame remain vivid over a lifetime. The University always has attracted scholars who are interested in teaching and scholarship, men and women who know that a Notre Dame education is more than what is taught in classrooms and laboratories.

Notre Dame has a unique spirit. It is traditional, yet open to change. It is dedicated to religious belief no less than to scientific knowledge. It has always stood for values in a world of facts. It has kept faith with Father Sorin's vision.

Graduate and Professional Studies

The Graduate School

Established in 1918, the Graduate School administers master's and doctoral programs in the Colleges of Arts and Letters, Engineering, and Science and in the Keough School of Global Affairs, and doctoral programs in the Mendoza College of Business. It embraces 51 doctoral programs, 19 terminal master's degree programs, and 12 professional master's degree programs in and among 32 University departments, institutes, and programs. Of the approximately 2,600 degree-seeking students, 93 percent are full-time, 68 percent are pursuing a doctorate, 44 percent are women, and 37 percent are international students. Among US students, 12 percent are from underrepresented groups. Prestigious multi-year fellowships are awarded to the top 10 percent of each incoming class. Approximately 97 percent of students in the Graduate School—both doctoral and non-professional master's—receive full-tuition scholarships.

Keough School of Global Affairs

Opening its doors in Jenkins Nanovic Halls, the Donald R. Keough School of Global Affairs advances Notre Dame's mission through its focus on integral human development—a holistic model for human flourishing and human dignity. The Keough School educates students to approach global challenges from a multidisciplinary perspective, combining academic disciplines to effectively address today's issues through work in government, nongovernmental and civil society organizations, and the private sector. An office in Washington, DC, enables the school to expand its presence in the global policy arena. The school offers academic programs at the doctoral, master's, and undergraduate levels, including a new bachelor of arts in global affairs. The school's nine institutes and centers offer academic research and internship programs, travel grants and fellowships, and language study opportunities around the globe.

Graduate Business Programs

For more than a century, the mission of the Mendoza College of Business has been to provide academically excellent degree programs focused on developing servant leaders who contribute to human flourishing. With the imperative to “Grow the Good in Business,” the college offers the following graduate business degree programs: Notre Dame MBA, executive MBA, master of science in accountancy, master of science in business analytics, master of science in digital marketing, master of science in finance, master of science in management, master of nonprofit administration, and executive master of nonprofit administration. Mendoza also has two doctoral programs: a Ph.D. in analytics and a Ph.D. in management.

The Law School

Founded in 1869, Notre Dame Law School is the oldest Catholic law school in the United States. It offers a broad array of courses and experiential learning programs. Its diverse faculty is especially highly regarded in the areas of constitutional law, human rights, and law and religion. International programs include the Notre Dame London Law Programme as well as exchange programs in nine other countries. The Law School operates seven legal clinics, including the Exoneration Justice Clinic and the Lindsay and Matt Moroun Religious Liberty Clinic, where students work on real cases under the close supervision of experienced faculty members. Post-J.D. offerings include LLM and JSD programs. For the third year in a row, Notre Dame Law School ranked fourth in the nation for placing graduates in federal judicial clerkships—per U.S. News & World Report and ABA data. More than 18 percent of the ND Law Class of 2023 and 17 percent of the Class of 2024 secured federal clerkships.

Student Life

Notre Dame is one of a handful of truly international universities, with a student body drawn from all 50 states and more than 1,800 international students from close to 100 countries. About 82 percent of the undergraduates and 18 percent of advanced students live on campus, and more than 80 percent are active in service learning and community volunteer activities. There are no social fraternities or sororities at Notre Dame—the residence halls are the focus of social, religious, and intramural athletic activities.

Achievements

In laboratories, studios, theaters, libraries, and institutes on campus and around the world, Notre Dame students are engaged in a wide array of research, scholarly, and creative projects. They are selected to the leading academic honor societies and have received such prestigious awards as Rhodes, Fulbright, Marshall, and Truman scholarships and fellowships from the Goldwater, Mellon, and National Science Foundations.

Student Activities

The Student Activities Office provides the environment and resources for undergraduate and graduate students to create social, cultural, intellectual, and recreational events and programs. With more than 500 clubs and organizations, students have nearly endless opportunities to find their niche and community to make Notre Dame feel like home and to advance their development as a student and professional. Prominent groups include Student Union Board, Class Councils, Hall Presidents' Council, Graduate Student Government, MBA Association, and the Student Bar Association.

Study Abroad Opportunities

Study abroad is an essential part of a student's Notre Dame education with 87.5 percent of undergraduates studying abroad. The University has programs in the following locations:

Australia	India	Poland
Belgium	Ireland	Portugal
Brazil	Israel	Singapore
Chile	Italy	South Africa
China	Japan	South Korea
Denmark	Jordan	Spain
France	Kazakhstan	Switzerland
Germany	Kenya	United Kingdom
Greece	Mexico
Hungary	Morocco

GLOBAL NETWORK

Notre Dame’s 12 global locations aim to extend the global reach of the University’s research, scholarship, and programs; enhance students’ international education and experience; and provide a means for meaningful academic, cultural, and civic engagement.

RACLIN MURPHY MUSEUM OF ART

The Raclin Murphy Museum of Art, formerly the Snite Museum of Art, opened in December 2023 with a new 70,000-square-foot facility including 23 galleries and temporary exhibition spaces, a cafe, retail space, a chapel, teaching spaces, a teaching gallery, and an object study room. The new museum is located on the south side of campus by the Charles B. Hayes Family Sculpture Park, adding to the University's growing arts district and serving as a public gateway to the University. The museum's collections are among the most significant of academic museums in the country, with holdings of European masterworks, the Marten collection of decorative arts, works on paper, sculpture, African art, art from the Indigenous Americas, and Olmec and Mesoamerican art. The Raclin Murphy Museum will also unveil new contemporary acquisitions that complement the institution's renowned historical and global collection.

Nearly 11,000 K-12 students and 12,000 Notre Dame students visited the Snite Museum of Art each year, with 91 percent of the 2023 graduating class stating that they had used the museum for a class, research project, or program.

Finances

In September 2024, Notre Dame's 18th President, Rev. Robert A. Dowd, C.S.C., announced a historic expansion of the University's commitment to financial aid through the Pathways to Notre Dame initiative. This bold effort includes two significant policies:

- A no-loan policy for undergraduate students, ensuring that middle- and low-income families who are admitted will be able to afford attendance.
- An expanded need-blind admissions policy, extending the University's longstanding practice of not considering financial circumstances in admissions decisions to include both domestic and international applicants.

Notre Dame is one of fewer than a dozen highly selective institutions nationwide with a need-blind admissions policy for all students, regardless of citizenship.

Additionally, Notre Dame is among approximately 75 colleges nationally that meet the full demonstrated financial need of all undergraduate students for all four years. In the 2025 academic year, more than half of the undergraduate class received more than $250 million in need-based scholarships that do not require repayment. Nearly 70 percent of undergraduates received some form of financial aid.

DEVELOPMENT

The University has had a successful development program since it established a formal fundraising office in 1947.

In 2024-25, the development office raised more than $573 million in cash gifts to the University. Of this total, Notre Dame’s alumni contributed more than $228 million to their alma mater; their level of participation is among the best in American higher education. Other important sources of gift income include foundations, corporations, and non-alumni parents and friends. For information on support programs, contact Louis M.
